INTRODUCTION

The Republic of Moldova is a small country without exit to the sea. It is situated in the Southern side of Europe. It borders in the West on Romania. In the North, East and South it is surrounded by Ukraine. The land extends itself in the North and South on above 350 km, in West-Eastern side it extends on more than 150 km and it has the total area of 33.843 km².

A smaller part of the Republic of Moldova (about 12%) lies to the East of Dnjester and in 1992 it has selfdeclared as Transnistria. The whole land is divided into 32 districts and 3 cities. Nowadays Republic of Moldova is divided according to the politically regard on 3 land parts: the selfdeclared Republic of Transnistria, the autonomous area of Gagausia and the remaining state area.

The capital of the Republic of Moldova is Chisinau city. Other bigger cities is Bender and Tighina city (also Bender), Cahul, Rîbnita, Tiraspol (capital of Transnistria).

The form of the government of the Republic of Moldova is the parliamentary democracy. The president is chosen by the parliament.

The number of the inhabitants is approx. 4.5 million (July, 2005) and 765,000 people from them live in Chisinau.

Republic of Moldova near Albania is the poorest state of Europe (with blooming corruption). Up to its independence, at the beginning of the '90 year, Republic of Moldova was one of the wealthiest Soviet republics. Since then the economic position has drastically changed having caused big poverty, above all of the rural population. As a consequence, 85% of the population live under the poverty border. The average month wage raises to 30 euro (approx. 465 Lei). The pensioners receive approx. 19 euro per month. The industry is struck by a crisis which cannot be overcome for many years. The unemployment rate has also terrifically been risen. To cover the most important life costs, at least 100 euros would be monthly necessary. For economic reasons and in order to protect the standard of living, a quarter of the population (approx. 1 mil.)

has left illegally the country for abroad, at the local level remaining elder people.

The bad economic condition of the families is the prevailing reason for the children' institutionalisation. The local system is still financed from the budget. Because of the precarious economic situation in the country side the financial means were drastically shortened for this field. The orphanages which should provide education and care to handicapped children and children from deprived families as well as to orphan children go to ruin. Most of the buildings are old and damaged, initially many being built for other purposes, hence, they are unfit. These buildings are bad maintained and don't correspond to the actual needs of the children. To note as well that the feeding is insufficient. The health state of the children depends as well on the feeding, hygienic condition, environment and psychical factors. According to statistics, 72.68% of the children have somatic illnesses, approx. 83.5% of children suffer simultaneous from several illnesses. The education provided within the orphanages is minimal, the teachers often are shortage of qualification and continuing training and with it also of the necessary motivation.

To the socially target population groups belong also the elder and sick people, invalids and large families whose insufficient living standard was caused by the bad economic situation of the country.

In order to achieve positive changes in this regards, PRO UMANITAS would like to provide its contribution to the improvement of the livingstandard of the mentioned target groups through the distribution of clothes and foods, projects' development as well as to improve their general living condition.
